NEW ISLAND-RD BRIDGE PROJECT WINS APPROVAL

300 Feet of Highway to Be Relocated to Eliminate Dangerous Curve

COST FIXED AT $29,760

Work to Start on Pike Hole Bridge June 15; Rights-of-Way Needed

Federal approval of a new concrete bridge over Hargus creek at W. High-st and the Island-rd to cost $29,760 was announced Monday morning by the Pickaway-co WPA office.

The bridge will be a 60-foot span with a 24-foot roadway. The project includes relocation of approximately 300 feet of roadway to eliminate the sharp curve that now exists.

This project, originally included as a part of the state-wide blanket project for the reconstruction of farm-to-market secondary roads, lists $21,920 in federal funds and $7,840 as the expense to the county.

60 To Obtain Jobs

The present bridge is too small for present day needs and has been a traffic hazard for many years. WPA officials estimated construction of the bridge, relocation of the highway and filling approaches would furnish employment to 60 men for about six months. The local office hopes to have plans completed for starting the project in July.

County commissioners were informed Monday morning by Court-right WPA engineer, that work was started on the 90-foot bridge.

The bridge is to be changed and the road straightened. This bridge is listed at $34,310 of which $24,110 is federal money and $11,200 to be paid by the county.

The commissioners will have to obtain rights-of-way for both of the bridge projects.

ROOF IS IN KENTUCKY TO OBTAIN HIS HORSE

C. E. Roof, horse trainer, was in Kentucky Monday to obtain his 3-year-old pacer stolen two weeks ago.

Roof made arrangements for the return of his horse in a trip to Kentucky Friday with Charles Radcliff, sheriff and Ray Davis, county prosecutor.

Roof's horse and two others, stolen in Jackson-co, were sold to a Georgetown, Ky., dealer for $100. The dealer did not know the horses had been stolen.

Strong National Defense Urged to Assure Peace

Albert Daniels, Memorial Day Speaker, Warns Nation to Evade Quarrels Across Sea; George Trimmer, William Parks, Survivors of War, Take Part

"We should have no part in quarrels across the sea, we have enough to look after at home to supply an adequate national defense for the United States, one of the surest guarantees against future wars" Albert L. Daniels, prominent Greenfield resident, said Saturday in the Memorial Day address in Forest cemetery.

"America must take her part in the solution of problems in every continent," Mr. Daniels said, "but let tolerance, kindness and peace sweep reason through all the lands. The broad, deep spirit of patriotism that pulses through the hearts of citizens today will grow broader with time to come."

The speaker told of the history of Memorial Day, urged deeper reverence for veterans, and congratulated local organizations for the preparations they had made for the patriotic celebration.

MRS. LUTZ DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Circleville Native Was Wife of Former Publisher

Word has been received of the death in Glendale, Cal. Saturday morning of Mrs. Frances Drake Haswell Lutz, second wife of Harry E. Lutz, owner of The Circleville Herald in the 1890s. Death followed a seven weeks' illness of complications.

Mrs. Lutz, a sister of Miss Edith Haswell and J. C. Haswell, this city, and Charles Haswell of Seattle, and S. Woodford of Chicago, was a native of Circleville. She was a member of the Methodist church and taught in the Sunday School. For 16 years she was employed in the land office of the Department of the Interior in Washington, D. C.

She married Mr. Lutz in 1912. Her married life was spent in Seattle, Wash., Los Angeles, and Whittier, Cal.

Besides her brothers and sister, Mrs. Lutz is survived by her husband and four stepsons, Ralph of Stanford university, Donald of Port Angeles, Wash., Harold of Whittier, Cal., and Hugh Ward Lutz of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lutz was a member of the Pickaway Plains chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

WOMEN INJURED IN RESORT FALL

Old Man's Cave Scene of Sunday Accidents

LOGAN, June 1.—Two persons, one a woman 59 years old and the other a girl 16, were injured Sunday in falls at Old Man's Cave, near here.

Mrs. George Scott of Hamden suffered a fractured hip in a fall. Florence McCormick of Logan fell from a 40-foot cliff while watching rescuers aid the older woman. She has a brain concussion.

Both are undergoing treatment in Cherrington hospital.

MAVIS ASKS BIDS FOR OIL AND TAR FOR REPAIR WORK

Sealed bids will be received up to noon, June 13, by J. F. Mavis, service director, for 25,000 to 50,000 gallons of road oil and 1,000 to 4,000 gallons of tar used for mixing with crushed stone to patch black top streets.

The oil will be used on streets to be torn up, graded and rolled in the extensive street improvement program this summer.

S. Pickaway-at has been torn up as far south as Walnut-st and is being graded by city workers. Pleasant and W. Mound-st are being patched.

Court-at was being torn up north of Brehmer's Greenhouses Monday morning by WPA workers for the repaving program.

STUDENTS URGE CHINESE TROOPS TO FIGHT JAPAN

Grave Crisis is Reported in Far East With Nanking Overthrow Possible

WARNINGS ARE DEFIED

Mystery Surrounds 358 Bodies Found Floating in Hai Ho River

PEIPING, China, June 1.—(UP)—Chinese troops joined with striking students in demanding that China fight Japanese military forces which now are holding virtually all North China.

The Chinese defiance, coming at the eight of the gravest Sino-Japanese crisis since 1933, was expected to precipitate a showdown which might result in war and overthrow Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nanking government.

A showdown was hastened when the officers of the 29th army, veterans of the units under Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan which were moved down in 1933 when Chinese fought in vain to keep the Japanese from penetrating the great wall passes from Manchukuo, joined their men in demanding that the Japanese evacuate their North China positions.

Students, despite Japanese warnings that their demonstrations would precipitate a crisis, staged anti-Japanese manifestations.

To Implore Troops

Large student delegations planned to proceed tomorrow to the Peitang and Nanyuan barracks, north and south of Peiping, respectively.

MYERS APPROVES FORM FOR OHIO REFERENDUM

COLUMBUS, June 1.—(UP)—First steps in the plan for a referendum on the Gilbert act, providing four-year terms for county treasurers, recorders, sheriffs, coroners, clerks and prosecutors, were completed today, when Secretary of State George S. Myers approved the form of the proposed referendum petitions.

Attorney General John W. Bricker gave his approval to the petition form, as being a "fair and truthful" statement, last week.

The referendum movement is sponsored by a committee headed by William E. Halley, Columbus, former Ohio senate clerk. It has been rumored that the movement has support of the Republican state organization.

REID'S BACK BROKEN

Zioncheck (Poor Fellow) Asks Garner's Indictment

Congressman Says Vice President Conspired to Take Wife from Him; Gives Reporter Wierd Ride

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—Police today arrested a struggling, cursing Rep. Marion A. Zioncheck at Naval Medical center on a lunacy warrant and took him to Gallinger municipal hospital for mental observation.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—Rep. Marion A. (Wahoo) Zioncheck, disgruntled because White House attendants wouldn't let him tell President Roosevelt how "to get on the front pages," vainly sought to obtain an indictment against Vice President John N. Garner today.

Zioncheck, going strong on his effort to beat his own record for marathon capering, appeared at the office of District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett shortly after vainly trying to crash the White House. "I wanna go before the grand jury," sputtered Zioncheck. "Right away."

"Why?" asked Garnett.

"I want an indictment against Vice President Garner," said Zioncheck. "I want to charge him with being in on the deal to take my wife away from me."

Garnett referred the irrepressible Seattle playboy to the police department. He said that if Zioncheck was really interested in getting an indictment against the vice president he had better talk it over with the officers first.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW OUTLAWED

Supreme Court Condemns Act of New York State

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—The Supreme Court today in a sweeping decision which will probably doom any kind of state or federal wage and hour legislation today held unconstitutional the New York minimum wage law for women and children.

The court's verdict was rendered in a 5 to 4 decision.

The ruling, while applied only to the New York law, was expected to mean the end of similar legislation in many states including seven which had joined with New York in appeal to sustain the validity of the law.

The conservative victory was made possible by the adherence of Justice Owen J. Roberts who cast his vote with the four members of the conservative bloc who voted against a similar law in 1923.

RAILROAD FARES TWO CENTS MILE IN NATION TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—Railroad passenger fares throughout the country fell today to levels of pre-war days, when a ticket cost two cents a mile, a porter thought a quarter was a good tip and the train butcher charged a nickel for a ham sandwich.

Porters sneer at two-bit pieces now and sandwiches are up 100 per cent in price, but all major railroads in the United States are selling passenger transportation at two cents a mile in coaches and three cents in pullmans. They also have eliminated the 50 per cent surcharge, which has been irritating travelers for 15 years.

The reductions went into effect at midnight last night. Only exceptions were a few scenic lines in the western mountain country, which were allowed to charge extra because of their added expense in chuffing up and down mountains, and certain lines, such as the Long Island railroad, which still may charge commuters more than the basic two cents.

All is not lovely, however, in railroad circles, suits have been filed, but rates have been reduced, and the passenger fare situation, insofar as it concerns the eastern carriers, approaches the chaotic.

SPEEDING CAR GOES OVER BANK ON ISLAND-RD, BREAKING POLE, WRECKING 40 FEET OF FENCE

Don Brannon Suffers Fractured Rib, Cuts on Head and Face; Numerous Accidents Reported in County Traffic

BY UNITED PRESS

The annual surge of America's millions to the highways and country-side for the first big holiday of the year left at least 100 mangled victims in morgues and undertaking parlors, victims of accidents, a United Press survey indicated today.

Automobile accidents caused the most deaths, as usual.

A pre-holiday campaign by the Safety Council was credited with reducing the toll below the average.

Newspapers and civic organizations campaigns strenuously during the last 12 months for highway safety.

Two Circleville men narrowly escaped death at 5 a. m. Saturday when the car in which they were riding went over an embankment on the Island-rd just west of the Sturm & Dillard railroad crossing.

Those injured were: Albert Reid, 34, E. Logan-st, broken back, bruises and lacerations.

Don Brannon, 22, Town-st, fractured rib and lacerations on the head and face.

Officers who investigated the crash reported the car failed to make a turn, broke off a telephone pole, tore down about 40 feet of fence and made three complete spins going down the embankment. They reported the tracks indicated the car made two side turns and one end over end turning landing on its wheels.

The men were thrown through the roof of the car on the first turnover. They were brought to Berger hospital by Ned Thacher, Jr., Jackson-twp, Otto Gluth, and Walter W. Crisinger, merchant patrolman.

SENATE TO VOTE ON RELIEF TODAY

Debate on Huge Measure Limited to 15 Minutes

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—Under an agreement to limit debate the senate met an hour earlier than usual today to dispose of the $1,425,000,000 relief bill before nightfall.

Only a Republican effort to turn relief administration back to states remained before a vote. Leaders predicted defeat of the effort and passage. The house already has passed a somewhat similar bill.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, D., Ark., who obtained an agreement to limit debate to 15 minutes for each senator after 3 p. m., said he would keep the senate in session tonight if necessary to pass the bill.

The bill would give President Roosevelt complete control over disbursement of the $1,425,000,000 supplement to the $4,000,000,000 work-relief appropriation voted last year. The house will give the money to Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins.

MAN GRAND TRY TO PROBE LEGION ACTIONS

Judge Chenot May Call Two
Court Associates to Reveal Knowledge

DETROIT, June 1.—(UP)—The Wayne county one-man grand jury met today to trace the sinister influence of the Black Legion into the governmental structure ruling Detroit, one of the country's largest industrial centers.

Attorney General David H. Crowley announced that two judges and a prominent politician would be subpoenaed to tell what they knew of the hooded band of night riders known to have executed one man and suspected of scores of crimes, ranging, as one official said, "from murder down."

Crowley came here from Lansing to confer with Circuit Judge James E. Chenot, the one-man grand jury designated to look into all phases of Legion activities. Chenot has all the powers of the usual grand jury—to subpoena witnesses and return indictments. Crowley will ask him to summon the judges and the politicians. Crowley announced that he also planned to question personally Wayne prosecutor Duncan C. McCreary, who has been active in the Black Legion investigation, but who has been charged with once applying for membership.

The drive of state authorities and local officials throughout the state to smash the Legion moved forward steadily, though more quietly. They awaited tomorrow's preliminary hearing for the 15 Legionnaires accused of the murder of Charles A. Poole, believing that the defendants would reveal even more concerning the organization's ramifications.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

PEACE FROM THE STAND- POINT OF YOUTH.

Members and visitors of the local Rotary Club have reason to congratulate themselves for the privilege of listening to a young citizen of Cincinnati following the luncheon on Thursday at the New American Coffee Shop, on the subject of Youth and Its Outlook for Peace.

The writer is not always in accord with those who affect the greater wisdom in matters of reform; and yet, in listening to Mr. Pat J. Kirwin, a young man of birth and training in our own public schools and for sometime past a student of promise in the State University, he found himself in almost perfect harmony with his ideals and arguments for a world-peace.

It is not practicable, of course, in a letter to the local paper, to go into the details of an intensely interesting, logical and timely discussion of the methods presented to prevent war. It therefore must suffice to point out, first, that the speaker as a representative of youth, has faith in several important movements, among which is an appeal to the women of the country, young and old, to thoroughly and effectively organize to prevent future wars brought on by selfishness and greed. He favored also an amendment to the Constitution that would provide for the conscription of all able-bodied men in mobilizing an army and in addition, compelling every necessary resource of money and property, for prosecuting the war; in other words, an amendment that would take profit of every kind and character out of war.

He believed also in some such organization as that known as The Veterans of Future Wars with ridicule of war as the chief feature of propaganda and that, too, without reference to or in disparagement of the veterans or gold star mothers of former wars. His single exception, naturally, for condoning war, was in the instance of aggression or attack by another nation. He believed also, that the veterans of the World War, for example, could wield a powerful influence for the future peace in impressing upon the youth of today that "war is hell" and concerning which they have little conception. He pointed out, in addition, the glamour of the preparation for war—the uniformed parade, headed by the band, flags flying, the keeping step of and soldiery bearing of strong young

East African Empire of Rome

ROME, June 1.—(UP)—At the behest of Premier Benito Mussolini the Italian cabinet today carved Ethiopia into three separate parts and added them to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland to form an East African Roman empire.

The cabinet, meeting for the second time in three days, ruled men with guns on their shoulders; the entire spectacle making its appeal to the emotions and patriotism of the populace. He believed in a reasonably equipped army and navy for defensive purposes only.

And finally, young Mr. Kirwin impressed his home audience with the fact, that it is to the present youth of the country, we must look, principally, for the elimination of war and the future peace of the nation. In all the past, it has been the youth who have been murdered and maimed and whose families have suffered throughout generations. We congratulate the young man on the clarity of his outlook.

NEW EQUIPMENT AGENCY OPENS

Dwight Holland, Newark, to Operate Electrical Store

A new electrical equipment sales agency was opened in Cincinnati this morning by Dwight Holland of Newark, Ohio. The store will be known as the Holland Electric Co. It is located in the sales room of the E. E. Clifton Garage, S. Court-st.

The store will be a branch of Holland's Newark store and is his first move in an expansion program. Holland has operated an electrical store in Newark for the last 12 years.

At the present Frigidaire refrigerators and ABC washers and ironers will be displayed in the salesroom. They will handle sales and service of these items for both household and commercial use. The agency for Frigidaire water cooling and air conditioning equipment is also held by the local store.

Holland, speaking about the Frigidaire refrigerator, says: "The mechanism, simple in its construction and with only three major moving parts, has been termed the 'meter-miser,' and is incorporated in most of the new models.

"The 'meter miser' is being hailed as a milestone in the spectacular and rapid development of the refrigeration industry and economists predict it will widen the use of electric refrigerators sensationally by making it possible for even those in the lower income brackets to pay the hitherto unheard of low electric current costs that will prevail with their use."

In the old West, people used to want to die in their boots. But then, of course, it was something to work for; now, it's just a matter of crossing the street.

Ivy brought from England was Few Cincinnati residents know the ivy on the sheriff's residence has considerable history connected with its planting.

The ivy was brought to Cincinnati from England by Mrs. Alice Hawks Brown, a former resident of this city. It was given to Mrs. John Henry in 1897 while Mr. Henry was sheriff.

The ivy came from the tower of Kenilworth Castle, one of the most beautiful of England's ivied castles.

Severe weather last winter badly damaged the vines but did not kill them.

15 BRUISED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Accident Takes Place In Chicago; Wing Lifted

CHICAGO, June 1.—(UP)—Skill of a veteran pilot was credited today with saving 15 men and women from injury and possible death when their huge airliner smashed into a housetop and pancaked into a vacant lot.

The plane was forced down at the end of its New York-Chicago run last night. Its right wing clipped the roof of a frame cottage a half mile from the airport. The plane spun around, smashed one of its motors, and hurtled to the ground.

The 12 passengers and three members of the crew were rushed to a hospital. Nine of them were released shortly. The other six were detained overnight "for observation." Apparently none was injured seriously.

Pilot W. F. Smith swung the giant two-motored TWA liner over the airport 20 minutes late. He circled to get landing signals, and was over the hanger when a vagrant gust of wind lifted one wing of his plane.

"I knew I had to land," Smith said later. "I couldn't make it at the field, so I headed for the first open spot I could find."

The open spot was a vacant corner lot, 125 feet long and 90 feet wide, a half mile from the airport.

Smith swung his plane as low as possible, because the field was far too small for a regular landing. The right wing of the liner tipped the roof of the house. Smith was thrown completely out of his cockpit as the plane spun completely around.

STRAWBERRY SPONGE
1 envelope Knox Gelatine (1/2 package)
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup hot water

1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup strawberry juice and pulp
1 tablespoonful lemon juice
1/2 cup cream or evaporated milk whipped
2 egg whites

Crush strawberries, add sugar, and allow to stand about half an hour. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatin on top of water. Add salt and hot water and stir until dissolved. Add strawberry mixture and lemon juice. Cool and when it begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream or milk and the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into glass and chill. Serve garnished with berries. Or serve on sponge cake with whole berries and whipped cream. Also by turning this mixture into a baked pastry shell and chilling you may have what is called Strawberry Chiffon pie. This should be served with berries and whipped cream also.

This recipe was accompanied by a Pickaway butter wrapper.

2 1/2 cups hot milk
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar

Pour hot milk over grape nuts and sugar. Separate eggs and add slightly beaten yolks to first mixture. Then add fruit, beat whites stiff and fold in. Bake in 325° oven in buttered baking dish 50 minutes. Serve with the following sauce topped with whipped cream and a sprinkling of grape nuts.

2 cups boiling water
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup sugar
4 tbsp. corn starch
2 tbsp. "old bar" butter

Add sugar to boiling water in double boiler, then salt. Mix cornstarch with 1/4 cup cold water and add. Cook till smooth and thick, then add butter and vanilla. Serve cold.

SEA DREAM SALAD
1 package Lime Jello
1 cup boiling water
1 cup grated cucumber
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon onion juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne pepper.

Pour boiling water over Jello, salt, and pepper when jello is dissolved add other ingredients. Mold individually and top with your favorite mayonnaise. Serves five or six.

This salad has many good points—it is inexpensive, blends with most any meat, or combination of foods—is cool looking for hot weather, is attractive and tasty.

To add to its daintiness, strain before molding.

This recipe was accompanied by a sales slip from Griffith & Martin's store.

THE HOUSING SITUATION

NEW residential construction in central and southern Ohio this year will reach the highest point since 1930, is the belief of many housing experts. Circleville has a splendid chance to add to this fine record by supporting the plan of the Chamber of Commerce to build a model home under the Federal Housing Plan. The idea of the business organization is to speed construction of new homes. The city's housing situation is deplorable. Many families renting two or three rooms are watchfully waiting an opportunity to move into a modern property. If full co-operation is given the Chamber of Commerce program the housing condition will undoubtedly be righted within a short time.

A survey by Federal Housing experts shows a uniform scarcity of rental properties in various Ohio cities. These include Gallipolis, rents up 20 per cent over last year; Dayton 10 per cent; Nelsonville 5 to 10 per cent; Bellefontaine and Greenville up to 20 per cent; Findlay 10 per cent; Springfield 20 per cent; Columbus 15 to 20 per cent.

New building programs have put hundreds of trades men to work. Gallipolis, Nelsonville and Greenville report 100 per cent employment in the building trades. In Upper Arlington, Columbus suburb, permits have been issued so far this year for 32 single dwellings costing $361,750.

THE MONTH OF ROSES

JUNE has been called the month of roses. The ideal of a former generation was a rose covered cottage. It was conceived that when a young couple built their nest in such a home, the setting of beauty must create happiness. Someone has called roses "the smiles of God's goodness."

Gardeners tell of the warfare of dew and other foes. The rose is an epitome of life, suggesting that no happiness can be reached in which there are not battles to be fought. Said Christiana Rossetti:

The rose saith in the dewy morn,
I am so fair;
Yet all my loveliness is born,
Upon a thorn.

How that expresses life! We may strive for success, but if we attain it it brings troubles, as the loveliest rose may scratch us with its thorns. But the gardener does not root up his roses because of those sharp points, and, we should not draw back from life's ambitions because of the pains incidental to the struggle.

It may have seemed a glorious victory to Mussolini but it looked like an armed robbery to a lot of us.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Senator James Couzens of Michigan probably is the richest man in public life.

And when he feels like it, as generally he does, he is one of the most politico-economically liberal. Occasionally, however, he takes what the progressives consider the conservative side of some national question. They say he is erratic. His version is that he is independent. He certainly is.

The progressives in congress greatly like him, but when he is opposing them he makes them angrier than the reactionaries do. They expect opposition from the reactionaries, but they cannot understand it, coming from him.

Hates System, Not Men

He consorts socially with plutocrats, too.

"It's a mystery to me," Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska said to him, "how you can associate with such folk—play golf with them, for example, treat them as friends."

"I know that Senator Norris made this remark," Senator Couzens told me.

"It is the plutocrats," he explained the Wolverine politician, "it is the plutocrats that I hate; I don't hate individuals. I don't hate even Andy Mellon personally."

However, he fought the ex-secretary of the treasury bitterly when the latter was in office.

F. D. R.'s Popularity
The senator also told why, in his opinion, President Roosevelt is so popular.

"I realize," he conceded, "that many Rooseveltian policies are impossible; that many of his advisers are impractical theorists; that administratively his system is terrible. But he is the only president in my time who ever has had a heart-throb of sympathy with the underprivileged — the common man."

"He has plans that won't work, but they can be licked into workability; at least they're a start."

"The old-time conservative philosophy has been, 'Let the rich grow richer; the more bread they have on their tables, the more crusts will be brushed off for the poor to pick up from the floor.' I believe in an even break for all the people, than that."

Remains Republican

Senator Couzens accordingly will not oppose Roosevelt's re-election. Positively not.

Yet he will run for the senate as a Republican.

LONDON MAY JUNK BRAIN-TRUST

WASHINGTON — Landonites say that one of the first things the Kansas Governor plans to do if nominated will be to junk the brain-trust organized by National Chairman Henry Fletcher. Landon, it is declared, will choose his own experts to supply him with campaign ammunition . . . Reports that the President intends to shift Jefferson Caffery, U. S. Ambassador to Cuba, to another post have started Robert H. Gore, former Governor of Puerto Rico, pulling wires for the job. The Florida publisher was appointed to the Puerto Rican post early in the New Deal, but after a brief, turbulent incumbency was withdrawn. He has been in the background ever since . . . The most brusque-mannered government building guards in Washington are those of the Interior Department. Visitors on business who try to enter the building after 3:30 p. m., the official closing hour, are subjected to almost third-degree methods before they are permitted to pass . . . a piece of campaign literature used against Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign has reappeared. It consists of a reproduction of an advertisement of the United European Investors, Ltd., that appeared in a New York paper in 1922, offering German marks for sale. In large letters in the ad appeared the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president of the company. The current reprint of the document bears the caption: The "Money Changer" of 1922.

"I ACCUSE"

Governor Gene Talmadge, the red-gal-lused terror of Georgia, is credited by friends with a secret scheme to make a spectacular attack on Postmaster General Jim Farley at the Democratic National Convention. According to the story, when Farley rises to open the convention formally, Talmadge will jump to his feet in his capacity as a National Committeeman move the National Chairman's impeachment. The Georgian, probably, would not get the chance to finish what he wanted to say if he really attempted such a bold maneuver, but he would be sure to obtain a lot of publicity . . . Though only a handful of states have passed laws to comply in all details with the Social Security Act, every state and territory is now sharing in at least one of the nine benefits under the law . . . Chester Davis, former Triple-A Administrator, who has just returned from a European trip, will depart at once on a speaking tour through the Middle West. Davis came back pessimistic about selling U. S. farm goods abroad . . . One of the Michigan delegates to the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia will be Anthony J. Wilkowski, of Detroit, under sentence of five years for election frauds in 1934. Wilkowski is out on bond on an appeal . . . National Republican Chairman Henry Fletcher has appealed to local GOP leaders to send in "true stories and pictures dealing with foolish projects built with government funds and the waste and political favoritism practised in the WPA and other governmental agencies."

Lady, Be Gallant

By MARIE BLIZARD

COPYRIGHT: RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Joan Spencer, school teacher in a small town, is shocked to learn from her married sister, Dorothy, with whom she lives, that Stephen Winslow, a young physician practicing in New York, has announced his engagement. She and Win had expected to be married. By a mistake, Joan received a letter from Julian Sloane, noted writer, granting her an interview for a secretarial position. When school closes, Joan drives to Sloane's luxurious summer home for the interview. Joan finds she has arrived in the middle of a house party. Sloane is absent but his guests make her welcome. After a gay time at Sloane's party, Joan finally meets her host who has been detained in New York. Joan likes Sloane at once and is delighted when he engages her as his secretary. Joan returns home to obtain her belongings.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 1

"I DON'T know, Joan, I really don't know whether I ought to let you quit teaching school or not and Jim is no help at all," Dorothy Paine eyed her sister dolefully. "Darling, do come off it. It isn't a question of 'letting' me do it; I'm over 21 you know. And I've made up my mind. I must say I don't see any future here for me."

"There's one thing about your future here, I'd know it would be respectable," Dorothy's tones were decidedly firm. "Mrs. Paine, you talk as though you were born and brought up here and the big wide world outside was waiting to gobble me up. For the fifth time please let me tell you that it's all a business arrangement and quite respectable. Mr. Sloane doesn't have an office or office hours. He does have a nice, elderly housekeeper which makes it entirely correct. I can see that he is a gentleman and besides, the things you read in books never happen. Also, I'm not a raving beauty," Joan concluded and glanced anxiously at her watch.

"All right, Joan, but you will come home frequently, won't you?" "Of course, I will," Joan started for the door with her bags. "As often as the Rattlebrain will carry me over. It's less than 60 miles and I'm sure I'll have the privilege of having you over to lunch."

"I wouldn't take any privileges, dear."

Joan laughed and kissed her sister farewell.

On her second visit to Julian Sloane's home Joan wasn't given the big peach and green room. Her rooms were on the third floor and, in addition to a large colonial sleeping room, there was a sitting room filled with books, a radio, big comfortable chairs and a hearth. She loved it and the thoughtfulness of it.

"It's your home now, Joan," Julian told her when he showed it to her. "I've put you up here so that you will have privacy when you want it. As other times, please believe you are a member of the household—not the staff—and I hope you will enjoy it."

"I'm sure I will, and I hope I'll be a good secretary," she said, giving him her hand. "Then started right to work and Joan began to worry. Julian was starting a new book and Joan's notes were shaky. She stayed up half the night that first week studying them conscientiously, ridden by the fear that she would make an error. But by the second week her nervousness had worn off and her memory had filled the things she missed when her mind was filled with anxiety. They worked only half a day, beginning early in the morning and working until lunch. Julian strode up and down as he dictated, lost himself in silences during which Joan kept motionless as a little mouse. Then he would act passages out while Joan marveled at the processes of his mind. Still in a role, he would turn to her angrily while her heart leaped into her throat until she realized that he was lost in the thing he was writing and didn't even see her."

After a few days she grew accustomed to surprises. "I'll be with you."

She was often awake and sitting at her typewriter when she heard Julian's car drive in, heard his step in the hall below and knew that he was having a night-cap in the library but, much as she wanted to join him, she couldn't bring herself to go down.

Sometimes Joan was lonesome. Twice she had driven over to Blakeville and each time had missed Julian's guests. She had gone deliberately when she knew he was having guests for she could not yet feel completely at ease and "a member of the household" as he had bid her do. Each time she had come back glad to be back, to find herself happier during those hours she worked with Julian than she was lonesome during the later ones. For relaxation, she had reading her daily swim with Julian. Twice he took her riding. Sometimes in the evening he sat at he'd ask when she was sure that he was heart deep in a passage. Then they'd swim vigorously, dry in the sun and eat their lunch from a table at the pool-side.

Afternoons she spent transcribing her notes. It was generally dinner time when she was ready to bathe and dress for dinner which she ate alone most frequently. It was peaceful and it was pleasant and it was always with a heightened sense of excitement that she came downstairs in the morning to find Julian in tweeds or flannels waiting for her with that freshly bathed and groomed look that charmed her. Or to see him briefly at night for a cocktail when he was dining out in flawless black and white that he wore with careless grace. Those nights she wondered where he was going and with whom, and what they would talk about.

And sitting in her cool, flower-filled sitting room those nights she sighed her head coffee and let the late dusk fill the room while the perfume of the country stole in with the night and she devised stories of her own of lovely ladies dining by candlelight, dining with gentlemen who looked like Julian Sloane.

But when she tired of that theme, there was another story of a boy and girl who loved each other once upon a time. That story should have ended with a light glowing in a white office and the girl waiting for the boy when his last patient had gone.

That was the time that she turned on the lamps and shut her dreaming away.

That night Joan had her first taste of fun and . . . of champagne! She had only two glasses but fun and excitement, dancing and music, gay youth and pretty girls made her feel, as light as the glass and her spirit as bubbly as the wine. "Oh, I'd love it. Half a sec, I'll be right back," Joan's beach sandals tapped up the stairs and in a few minutes she was back in a flowing dance frock of deep violet sheer material.

It was after three when Alex brought his roadster to a stop before Julian's porch. Joan's light laughter broke the stillness of the quiet night. "Would you like to kiss me good night?" Alex asked lightly. "Love to but I'm afraid I can't," she tried to make it light but it was only low and, saying it, she slipped out of the car.

"Thanks awfully," she said, "for the best time I've ever had." "That you, Joan?" It was Julian's voice from the darkened porch. "Yes," she said, "I . . . I've been dancing with Alex Garrity."

"You knew that I was starting my second chapter tomorrow. Now I suppose I'll have to put it off. Well nothing to do about it now. Good night." His voice was more cold than querulous and Joan's happy evening was completely spoiled.

Why? She asked herself as she took off the violet frock. "That you, Joan?" It was Julian's voice from the darkened porch. "Yes," she said, "I . . . I've been dancing with Alex Garrity."

Special Study is Made of Allergy in Children

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I TOOK OCCASION yesterday, in view of the fact that this is about the hay fever season, to discuss the whole subject of allergy, that peculiar condition which affects the body cells of certain people and renders them irritable to many common substances met with in daily life, which affect other people not at all.

In the case of rose fever, the substance is plant pollen. Many other substances, especially foods, will act in the same way.

In this connection, it is especially interesting to study allergy in children, in order to discover how early in life this hypersensitiveness will show itself.

In a special study of over two hundred children, one manifestation was seasonal hay fever. This began, on the average, at the age of four.

There is a form of perennial hay fever in which the nose gives every manifestation of sinus trouble, but in which no anatomical change in the nose can be found to account for it. Many children show this symptom complex fully developed at the age of ten years. There is nasal congestion, sneezing, a mild discharge in the nose, drooping in the back of the throat, etc.

Asthma Affected Children
Asthma, another allergic condition affected about one-quarter of all children studied. The average age was 9 years, and the average duration of symptoms was five years.

About 50 per cent of them can be relieved by careful diagnosis of what substance is responsible for the irritation. Children who begin to have asthma as early as five years usually outgrow it before the age of 15.

Digestive symptoms are common in these patients and begin at an early age. Variable appetite, food dislikes, capriciousness about food, cyclic vomiting and diarrhea are common manifestations. In most cases these symptoms are due to food allergy and frequently a common food, but here again the patient appears to develop immunity to this food and outgrows the condition in the course of time.

Among the worst manifestations in children are those in the skin, with the development of chronic hives and eczema. Some food is usually the cause, although substances that come into contact with the skin, such as animal hair, or feathers, clothes, bedclothes, mattresses and pillows, may be responsible.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
F. S.: "Please tell me what causes granulated eyelids?"

Answer: Granulated eyelids are due to infection. The common form may be the result of astigmatism or improperly fitted glasses, the use of which causes eyes to itch and hence are rubbed by dirty hands, which brings the infection there. A specific form of granulated eyelid, known as "trachoma," is a much more serious epidemic disease.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SEEKING A SWING

AN EXCELLENT rule of procedure to follow, especially in duplicate games, is: "Be conservative when ahead. Be bold when behind." If early play has given you a good lead, just play for averages while well ahead. If early play has not favored you, try boldly for a big swing, even if the odds are against its success.

Today we have an excellent example of the occasional value of such strategy. Although East and West were excellent players, in a recent 12-table game, they seemed from the traveling score sheets to be only about fourth in score. To seek a swing West made an opening call on a hand not nearly strong enough for rubber games or for duplicate games, except for an emergency. As a result of the success on this hand and another, the pair jumped into top score position by the end of the evening.

Four diamond tricks were run. On the fourth one declarer let go his lowest spade. That suit alone troubled him. On dummy's last club declarer let go his second low spade, then he claimed the balance of tricks for his contract.

West plays 4-Hearts. The opening lead is the K of diamonds. He went down a trick on this double contract. Before tomorrow think whether the contract can be fulfilled against perfect defense.

U. B. Missionary Society

On account of commencement exercises, the United Brethren Missionary society meeting scheduled for 7:30 o'clock, Thursday, will be held in the afternoon instead, at 2 o'clock.

Women's Bible Class

The Women's Bible class of the Presbyterian church will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Kiger, Pickaway-twp, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A social afternoon will follow the business meeting.

Dinner-Dance Success

The dinner-dance at the Pickaway Country club Saturday was a decided success, 80 guests enjoying the dinner served at 7 o'clock. Approximately 130 couples danced to the music of Hunn's 11-piece orchestra until a late hour.

On July 4, the dinner and dance will be repeated for members and friends of the club, the same orchestra furnishing the music.

A stag party for members is scheduled for Wednesday with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Jones-Leist Wed

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. C. R. Wendell in Stoutsville when Miss Edith M. Jones became the bride of Marvin Leist. The ceremony took place Thursday evening, May 28, at 7 o'clock. They were unattended.

Miss Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, of Salt-creek-twp, graduated from the Saltcreek-twp high school in 1934 and for the last few weeks held the position of attendant at the Feeble Minded Institution in Columbus.

Mr. Leist, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Leist of Washington-twp, is a graduate of the Washington school in the class of 1930. He received his business training at Bliss Business college, Columbus. He is now the secretary-treasurer of the Columbus Productive Credit Association.

Following the ceremony they were surprised with a shower at the home of the bride's brother, Russell Jones, in Tarleton. Fifty guests enjoyed the evening and the newly-weds received many beautiful and useful gifts.

They will reside in their newly furnished home six miles east of Circleville on Route 56.

Those who step into the kidnapping game from now on at least know just what they have in except.

New Radio Station Takes Air; It's the Queen Mary

Powerful Transmitters, 31 Wave Bands and 14 Operators on Great Britain's New Steamer

A NEW RADIO station has gone on the air, one which is unlike any other, since this one, save for short intervals, is never in the same spot but moves back and forth across many thousands of miles.

The new station is GBT and is the ether "studio" of the new superliner, Queen Mary.

So powerful is the Queen Mary's radio apparatus that those aboard may speak and be heard in New York even as the great ship slips away from her dock on England's shore.

En route, programs emanating from the Queen Mary's radio rooms are heard by listeners on both sides of the Atlantic ocean.

Never before has a ship contained such a radio equipment and such radio personnel as did the Queen Mary as she began her maiden voyage. Besides four powerful transmitters, 31 wave bands and 14 radio operators, the Queen Mary's complement included motor-driven lifeboats which were also equipped with radiophones.

Out from eight aerials of varied lengths up to a 600-foot spider web of wire swung between the mast and the new sea queen.

One of the great prizes of the builders is that in each of the 500 staterooms aboard the Queen Mary it is possible to remove a receiver and talk by radio phone to shore, anywhere on shore and hinterland threaded by ordinary telephone lines.

When Cecil B. DeMille comes to the microphone for his first appearance as producer of the Radio Theatre tonight he will present Jesse L. Lasky as a special guest of honor in the same broadcast which brings Clark Gable and Madeline Dietrich together in co-starring roles for the first time.

The premier production of the Radio Theatre from Hollywood on this date, featuring Gable and Madeline Dietrich in "The Legionnaire and the Lady," will be broadcast over a WABC-CBS network at 8:30 (EST).

It was just 23 years ago in the summer of 1913 that Cecil B. DeMille and Jesse Lasky met for lunch in New York. Both were practically broke but they decided day-making a film. The picture they made was "The Squaw Man," to risk their combined capital in the most insecure gamble of the

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Jean Arthur, who is now co-starring with William Powell in RKO Radio's "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford," is one young actress who has disproved the old axiom, "they never come back."

After leaving motion pictures cold, Miss Arthur returned to the screen to achieve success considerably greater than any she had enjoyed in more than three active years before the cameras.

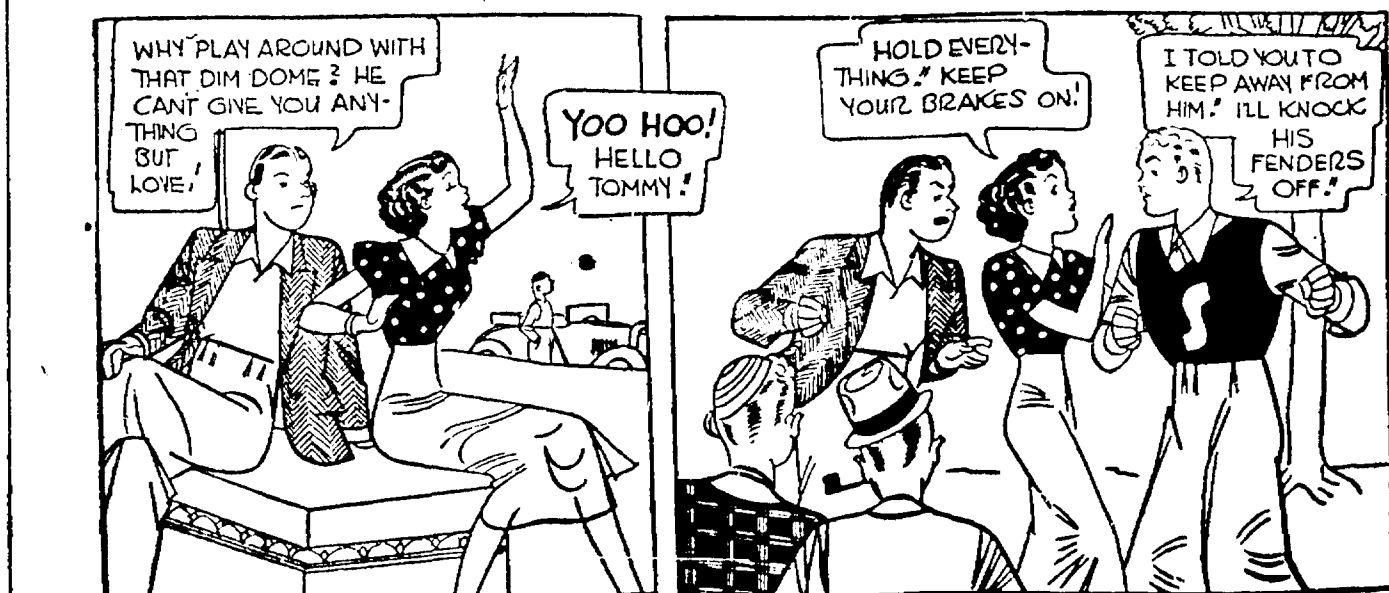

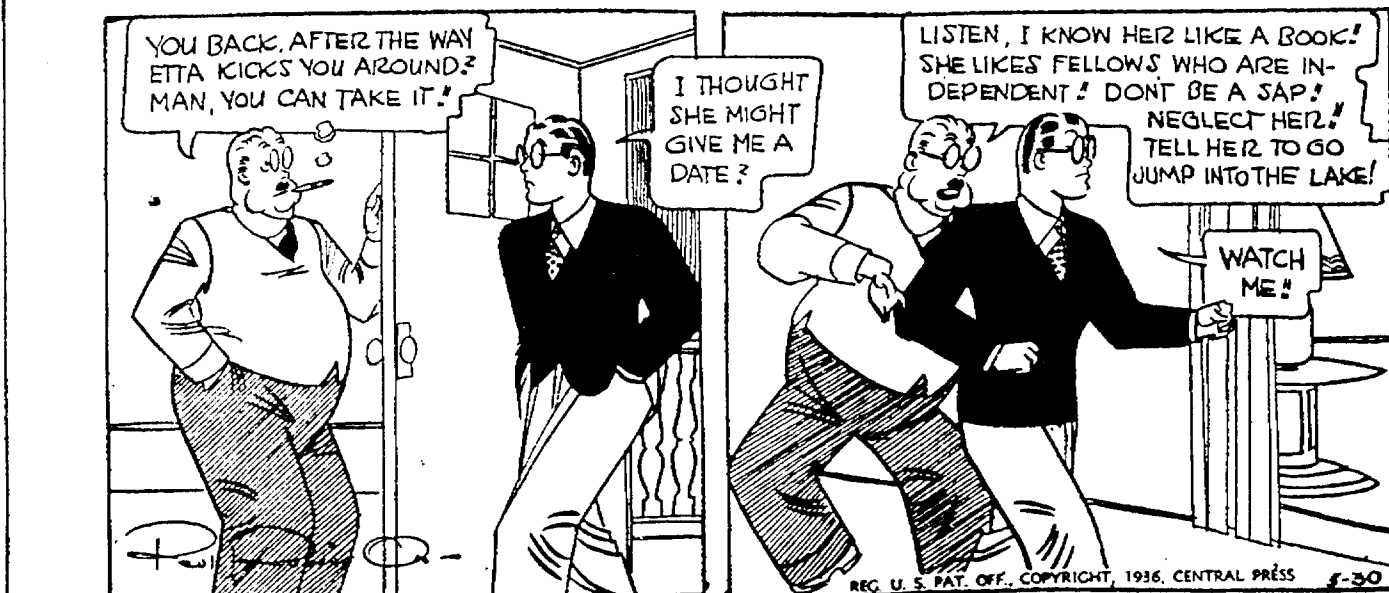

In 1931, Miss Arthur returned to New York, her home city, convinced that she was no longer interested in the films, despite the fact that she had played such important roles as the feminine lead in "The Greene Murder Case," opposite the same William Powell she is currently co-starring with in "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford." She was equally sure that she did not care for a stage career.

AT THE GRAND
"Tell it to the marines, but never trust a microphone," is Irene Dunne's advice to young girls.

Irene Dunne and Betty Furness were exchanging confidence on the "set" between scenes during the filming of Universal's John M. Stahl production, "Magnificent Obsession," which is now at the Grand theatre.

"If I were you girls," said Stahl, "I'd move away from that microphone."

BARNHART WINS LORMS TROPHY

Score of 84 With 20 Handicap Low; Pro Cards 69

C. R. Barnhart, Montclair-ave. won possession of the Lorms cup, Pickaway Country club Memorial Day trophy, Saturday, with a large crowd competing. The Lorms trophy goes to the golfer shooting the lowest net score. Barnhart had 84 gross with a 20 handicap, giving him a 64 net. He scored the most pars, 10, to win another prize. Dewey Black, former club champion, carded the lowest gross of the day, 82, to win a merchandise prize. The highest gross was Neil Barton's 102, while Frank Marion Jr. had the most sevens, 1, to win a prize. The course was crowded all day Saturday, and another large group played Sunday. Tod Thompson, young professional, shot two beautiful rounds during the week-end. He played the course Friday in 70, two under par. Sunday, he scored 69, combining 36 and 33, the latter round three below par. This score was reported despite a penalty stroke on No. 7.

FEEDS, EAGLES MEET TONIGHT

Pickaway Dairy Bumps Given Team 5 to 3

Eshelman Feeds and Eagles lodge softball teams will tangle at 6:30 o'clock this evening for supremacy in the league. The Eagles won their first game while the Eshelman crew lost its first contest in a thriller. Lloyd Leasure will be on the hill for the Feeds and Eddie Callahan for the lodgemen. Tuesday evening the Cities Service Oils, losers in their first two starts, will meet the Pickaway Dairy. The Dairy put on the pressure in the second inning of its game against the Given Oils Friday evening to score all five of its runs winning 5 to 3. The game required only 43 minutes with both teams playing fast ball. The Pickaway outfit spread seven hits through the second frame to tally five runs. The Given Oils counted twice in the first and once in the third. Neither team scored after the third frame. Blair, county farm agent, had his first taste of softball league pitching and did nicely. Bob Jones was the losing hurler.

About This And That In Many Sports

Hornaby Feels Urge

DON'T FALL out of your chair if the box scores carry the name of Hornaby at first base for the St. Louis Browns. . . . Rajah has the itch common to old fire horses, etc. . . . it's something you can't get out of your system. The Rajah, 40 years old, depose and says: "Jim Bottomley (who is four years younger than Hornaby) may not be able to play the full season (Hornaby hopes) and I may get into a few games at first to let him rest. My legs feel better than they have in many years. . . ."

Hutchings Fast

One of the better-looking young National leaguers is John R. Hutchings, Cubs' right hander with a bit of a marcel in his hair. . . . John, a Chicago boy, graduate of Calumet high last year, won 13 games for Peoria last year, and Mister Grimm likes his work. . . . Patty Berg, young Minneapolis golf star, wants to take up dress designing as a profession. The Olympic situation is being complicated by a young miler at University of Wisconsin. . . . his name is Fenzke, enough like that of Gene Fenzke, Penn's distance candidate, to make this Olympic a great thing for the birds if both boys get in. . . . In consideration of consistency, Harry Picard should be favorite for the National Open. . . . during the winter he shot 51 rounds at par or below par out of 55 played. . . . One of the best tenors in the National league, and a pretty good ball player with it, is Buddy Hassett, first baseman of the Dodgers. . . . Before joining the Giants, Rookie Pitcher Harry Gumbert had seen only one big league ball game.

Traynor Pleasant

Pie Traynor, manager of the Pirates, has been chased by umpires only twice in 15 years. . . . both times for complaining too vigorously that the umpire gave the base-runner the breaks because of said base runner's rep as a sack swifter. . . . Umpire Emmett Ormsby is about to become the father of his twelfth child. . . . which will enable him to put a full nine on the field, with umpires at the plate first and third. Hanover avenue in Lexington, Ky., is named after the great horse by that name. . . . One of the secrets of successful tennis is spin on the ball. . . . Bryan Grant, little Atlanta Davis Cupper, is becoming a master of putting the English on the apple, particularly the reverse, or backspin. . . . The boss, Rushaway, which has won three derbies this year—the Louisiana, Illinois and Latonia—two of them on consecutive days, is a castoff from Brevity's barn. . . . two derbies in two days is a modern record, but back in 1901 a horse named Gilder won four races in an afternoon in Australia. . . . and in 1870 Little Reb won one one day and came back the next afternoon to cop three.

HEIFRICH OUTFIT WINS 5 TO 3 FROM LANCASTER TEAM

New Holland's Heifrich Buds won another ball game Sunday afternoon this time taking Lancaster Coca Colas into camp 5 to 3.

The setback was the first suffered this season by the Fairfield-co team. Shadel Saunders, tall New Holland hurler, was in form holding the Coca Colas to seven hits and fanning 10. He refused to walk a single batter. Cooksey, Lancaster southpaw, was touched for nine hits, fanned five and walked four.

Next week New Holland plays London on the Heifrich lot.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Rogers Hornaby, manager of the St. Louis Browns, whose ninth inning pinch single drove the winning run home, enabling the Browns to sweep the three-game series.

PETILLO IS THIRD IN 500-MILE RACE; MEYER IS WINNER

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—(UP)—Kelly Petillo, Los Angeles Italian who "retired" last year, today was awarded third place behind Louis Meyer and Ted Horn in the Memorial Day speedway race. Mauri Rose, Dayton, O., previously announced as third-place winner, was dropped to fourth place in an official audit announced by Charles Merz, chief steward of the race. Petillo, who finished the race for George MacKenzie, ran into his pit when the race was slowed down because Al Miller, Detroit, threw a wheel from his car. Checkers failed to notice Petillo's absence and credited him with an extra lap. Race officials were jubilant over the apparent success of their safety precautions. Miller's was the only accident, although a new record was hung up. Miller's machine threw a wheel as he roared down the straightaway at 115 miles per hour. Miller was thrown from the car and broke a leg. His mechanic, Jimmy Jackson, Indianapolis, was unhurt. Meyer, who set a record of 109.069 miles, became the first man to win the 500-mile classic three times. He took the checkered flag in 1928 and 1933, and just managed to get into this year's race. He broke two motor blocks trying to condition his racer, and got the third one installed just in time to qualify. DIZZY DEAN IS LUCKY TO DEFEAT CINCINNATI ST. LOUIS, June 1.—(UP)—"Dizzy" Dean had his ninth victory of the season today, scored at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds, but the ace of the St. Louis Cardinal staff didn't gain it with a masterful hurling exhibition. Dean went 12 innings yesterday to receive credit for a 8 to 7 triumph over Cincinnati, but he was far from a puzzle to the Reds. Cincinnati touched Dean for 19 hits, seven of them for extra bases, and yet dropped the contest. INDIANS MEET RED SOX IN FIGHT FOR SECOND CLEVELAND, June 1.—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians scored their fifth consecutive triumph and seventh victory in games here yesterday, defeated the Chicago White Sox 7 to 5. The win enabled Cleveland to climb within one-half game of the second place Boston Red Sox. They will have an opportunity of passing Boston Tuesday when they open a three game series at Boston. (ADDITIONAL SPORTS ON PAGE TWO.)

MINISTER CITES NEED OF RETURN TO GOLDEN RULE

Methodist Church Filled for Annual Service; Graduation Thursday

The Methodist Episcopal church was filled Sunday evening for the annual baccalaureate service for the class of 1936. The service was held at 7:30 p. m. and was presided over by Rev. Herman A. Sayre, church pastor, who used as his subject "The Need of Return to the Golden Rule."

Rev. Herman A. Sayre, church pastor, was in charge of Sunday evening's service. He used as his subject "The Need of Return to the Golden Rule" and stressed the good the graduation class could do in the much-needed "return to God" campaign.

"There is not one thing wrong in this world today that could not be righted if the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount and the Golden Rule were followed," the class was told.

Rev. Mr. Sayre's address was inspirational and interesting. He applied teachings of the Bible as remedies for many of the present-day evils and challenged the class to "make yourselves remembered for years to come by doing what you can to break up the 'organization' practice with which Circleville seems to have received a double dose. Many Circleville residents do not have time to come to church because of the many organizations to which they belong."

The class members, the faculty and members of the board of education were led to their seats coach driven by Hayward Graves, 20, Laurelville Rt. 3, was damaged Saturday night and a calf owned by Frank Rudisill was killed in an accident on Route 56 six miles east of Circleville. The sheriff's department investigated the accident. Officers reported the car was owned by Elise Moore, Laurelville, Rt. 3.

Autos driven by Dr. C. S. Cotlin, Wetumpka, Ala., and Rev. J. G. Leveck, Sedalia, were damaged Sunday afternoon in a collision on Route 22 a mile and a half west of the city.

Julia Sommers, N. High-st. Chillioco, had stopped her car along the highway due to motor trouble. Rev. Leveck stopped back of the Sommers' car, officers said, and Dr. Cotlin was unable to stop and struck the last car in the lineup.

Two autos were damaged Sunday afternoon in a collision at an intersection on the Orient-Commercial Point road. One of the cars was owned by Homer Cromley, Ashville Rt. 2, and driven by R. A. Merritt. The other was owned by William Fox, 909 Thomas-ave, Columbus.

Slight damages resulted from an auto collision Friday night at High and Court-sts. The cars were driven by L. N. Burroughs, 1158 Oregon-ave, Columbus, and Homer Young, Circleville, Rt. 5, police reported.

Officers said Burroughs was driving south on Route 23 and the accident occurred when Young, driving north, made a turn into W. High-st.

STUDENTS URGE

spectively, to urge the troops to make immediate preparations to fight.

The gravity of the situation deepened when 10,000 students in seven universities and six middle schools went on strike to protest the Japanese military occupation of North China.

The strike reached such serious proportions that the faculties of two educational institutions dismissed their classes for three days, effective today.

"We are as patriotic as you students," the professors said. Meanwhile Tientsin, 90 miles down the railway from Peking, was tense.

The Japanese military took official cognizance of Chinese allegations that the Japanese are responsible for Tientsin's prime mystery—the daily appearance of bodies floating down the Hai Ho (sea river), to date 358 bodies have been fished from the muddy stream.

FIVE CHICKENS STOLEN

ATTENTION, SHOPPERS

A GOOD shopper is one who gets the best in quality at the most reasonable price, and not one who considers price alone. The best bargain in automobile insurance today is a "State" policy because it really gives you the protection and yet sells at a cost you can afford to pay.
